- 📏 6'2"
- ⚖️ 261 lbs
- 🎂 Age: 31
- 🌟 Debut: Kingdom Come

🔪 Overview

Lobo Briggs didn't arrive in CFW with hype packages or promises. He arrived through violence.

A drifter with mercenary instincts and a reputation built in underground fight circuits across the South, Lobo made his first appearance at Kingdom Come

No wasted movement. No flashy theatrics. Just impact.

Everything about Briggs feels dangerous in the wrong way. The torn denim. The taped fists. The thousand yard stare. He wrestles like a man who learned how to survive before he ever learned how to perform.

Now headed into his singles debut at Black Light 39 against the monstrous Montag Black, Lobo enters CFW carrying the kind of presence that changes the mood of a room the second he walks into it.

He doesn't fight to entertain people.

He fights like somebody still owes him something.

💪 Style & Strengths

- Wears battle worn denim and dark sleeveless hooded gear
- Has an unsettling calm before matches that shifts instantly into brutality
- Feels less like a wrestler and more like a hired weapon

🌟 Finishing Move

Dead Weight

A brutal spinning side slam into a sit out impact. Lobo hoists the opponent high across his chest before violently driving them down with full force, folding them into the mat beneath him. The landing is sudden, ugly, and usually enough to end the fight immediately.

📖 Notable Themes

- Represents raw survivalist aggression over polished athleticism
